Do you have the knowledge and skills you need to effectively advise elderly clients?

As the baby boom generation moves into its senior years, the client base of many legal professionals is shifting. For those who provide legal advice to elderly clients, it's critical to have a current understanding of the latest best practices and issues that frequently affect senior clients and their families. Moving beyond information delivery, you will learn not only the law, but will gain a practical understanding of what to do, and not do, in your role as a lawyer.

In this practical and intensive day long program, an outstanding faculty of practicing lawyers and clinicians will teach you the following:

- Update on the state of physician assisted death in Canada
- When should you refer your client to a capacity assessor? How long is a capacity assessment valid?
- Best practices for dealing with the lucid interval
- Will changes - how much documentation do you need?
- Marriage breakdown when one party is in long-term care - what happens now?
- Navigating issues with shared property and joint tenancy
- What are the red flags that financial institutions look for?
