1ST ANNUAL ESSENTIAL ONE-DAY UPDATE IN Regulatory Compliance & Legal Risk Management for Financial Institutions

Waves of change are hitting Canada's financial services industry, shifting priorities, obligations and the regulatory frameworks for banks, insurance companies, securities/investment firms and credit unions. Resources continue to shrink, increased globalization mandates faster solutions, and regulators have placed greater focus on judgment and ethical standards. In order to meet these escalating demands and obligations, all compliance professionals must stay ahead.

From the developers of the highly successful Osgoode Certificate in Regulatory Compliance & Legal Risk Management for Financial Institutions, this intensive, one-day update event will arm you with the essential updates and insights you'll need to stay informed.

It's also a valuable opportunity to connect with peers in your industry with similar concerns and to hear directly from the regulators on their interpretation and enforcement priorities.

Get important insights, including:

- Crucial industry updates for the financial services sector
- The regulators speak! Learn their current and future priorities, including coordination among regulators
- Proportionality – strategies for dealing with evolving business needs, operational risks and challenges, regardless of organization size
- Fair treatment of customers – what will be enough?
- Ethical use of FinTech, RegTech, InsureTech? How to satisfy business and regulatory obligations
- Strategies for dealing with changes to regulatory frameworks and supervision, includes 'name & shame' sanctions and 'trust but verify' governance
- Developments in data and privacy and how to avoid algorithm bias

PLUS! Join us for a reception with faculty following the program.

Waves of Change: The Regulators' Speak!

Regulatory frameworks and related supervision are constantly changing. Engage with major regulators of banking institutions, insurance, securities and investment firms, and credit unions on the latest.

Each interactive, industry-focused session will also focus on priorities pipelines and coordination strategy. Discussions include:

- Meaning of misconduct risk in risk-based supervision
- Role of codes of business conduct and ethics
- Combination 'principles and rules' for framework enhancement
- Use of international standards to achieve consistency between jurisdictions
- Implications of technology on business conduct responsibility
- Impact of compensation practices on retail sales practices
- Need for training programs that are comprehensive
- Key elements of whistleblowing and the protection of whistleblowers
- Need for proportionality to accommodate smaller regulated entities
- Coordination between regulators to avoid regulatory arbitrage
- 'Trust but verify' approach to misconduct risk governance
- Firm's responsibility to oversee their intermediaries and outsourcers
- Importance of a culture of integrity in doing what's right
- Enforcement via sanctions, 'name & shame' and supervisory ratings
- 'Fair treatment of customers' as a common understanding of a desired outcome
- Protection of firms' sensitive information

Each segment will be moderated by J-P Bernier and Joann Sochor, Program Chairs. Speakers and regulatory bodies include:

Data and Privacy Critical Update

Chantal Bernier Suzanne Morin
Sylvia Kingsmill

Customers entrust you with their personal data. New digital channels are changing the way customers interact with financial institutions. New technologies are enabling organizations to use customer data for evolving ways of meeting customer needs. With all this change, how can you ensure your organization remains on-side and steps ahead of any potential threats? This session will arm you with the tactics you need.

- How can financial institutions provide transparency about data use to customers? How can companies provide the right information at the right time?

- Strategies for getting informed consent
- Anonymizing data – what should financial institutions be able to do with that data? Can financial institutions monetize this?
- Tactics for ensuring algorithms do not introduce bias

1:30 p.m.

Market Conduct Update: Fair Treatment of Customers

Lyne Duhaime Grant Spears
Geoff Ritchie

- What principles and judgement should companies use to make sure decisions in pricing, compensation, channels, product design?
- How can compensation programs be designed to incent “fair” behaviour?
- Strategies for recognizing and adjusting for asymmetric information about products
- How can companies recognize behavioural biases in treatment of customers?
- Creating fairness across all channels: from face-to-face to digital
- How can companies assure they are dealing with vulnerable customers appropriately?
- Post sale – determining if customers are treated fairly

New Technologies: Impact of FinTech, RegTech & InsureTech

Parna Sabet-Stephenson Amy ter Haar

New models, new technologies, new intermediaries present more options for financial institutions and customers. Explore and get practical tips and solutions for:

- New intermediaries, new opportunities and new obligations – driving corporate values and satisfying regulators’ greater focus on ethical standards and integrity culture
- Data analytics – how can financial institutions mine information about customers? Pilot new offerings for data to test customer satisfaction and regulators’ approval?

- Understanding and managing the transition and drivers of misconduct risk
- How can regulators effectively use sandboxes to foster innovation?

3:15 p.m.

Behavioural Ethics & Compliance Update in 2019: Beyond the Checklist

J-P Bernier Joann Sochor
Jasmin Jabri

The breadth and complexity of the compliance function continues to shift. Regulators’ greater focus on ethical standards and integrity culture throughout the enterprise is dramatically changing, while more and more, compliance officers and legal risk managers are expected to look beyond compliance and engage in judgment-based assessment of business conduct supporting corporate values.

Doing the right thing (ethics) is now recognized as a form of risk taking, while behavioural ethics – in sync with compliance programs (doing things right) – are more values-based. How do you balance the two or bring them together in a manner that does not compromise one or the other?

This unique, interactive and thought-provoking session will cover:

- What are some of the learnings from behavioural ethics and behavioural economics?
- What situational factors cause people to cheat?
- What cognitive buffers delay awareness of what is ethically problematic?
- How can decision theory help explain unethical behaviour?
- How can Compliance address common types of rationalizations applied to unethical behaviour?
- Strategies for when compliance can use behavioural ethics to be more effective
